

There is just something special about a craftsman bungalow with a covered front porch that strikes our fancy. Maybe it's remembering sitting on our own front porch when we were kids, just hanging out and having a good time doing nothing, or maybe it was a favorite place to bird watch. Whatever the case, we've given it to our DeRosa model to set the style for family living inside and out.

We've added a front bedroom that can also be a home office--conveniently located right off the front entry. It even has a private entrance to the shared hall bath.

The private master suite will entice you to lay back, relax, and enjoy soaking in the spa tub. Did you remember to buy the scented candles for the windowsill? We hope so.

The whole family can come together and enjoy the open entertaining space. And since the dining space is so large and open to the kitchen, there is no excuse not to invite those relatives you've been promising to have over! When that happens, you'll know you are...Home at Last.
