Central living is at the heart of this home.

An open kitchen to great room concept allows family time all the time. The nook off of the kitchen allows you the opportunity to have a dinette with a view to the backyard, or a quiet space to sit and contemplate nature. Screen in the rear porch and you can enjoy multi-seasonal outdoor living.

We've added a planning space in the corner of the kitchen so you can catch up on the hottest recipes.

The formal dining room to the front of the house creates added entry appeal, but who says this can't be turned into that home office you always wanted?

A split bedroom concept separates sleeping arrangements, while keeping the whole family on one level.

We've even tucked a powder room off the back entry, convenient to the lower level staircase. We can foresee a basement finish in your future. That's probably just what you need to feel that you are...Home at Last.
